Wilton Alta Mesa GC Hunt April, 2009

The weather was great, the coin hunting couldn't have been better and the food was delicious. That describes our annual Wilton Gun Club hunt on April 11th. Candy Workman (with husband Jake above) won the grand prize - A Fisher Excel Metal Detector donated by Fisher through Larry at Big Valley Metal Detectors. The 5 lucky guys above each won a 1/10 ounce gold coin.

Of course none of this fun would have been possible without the hard work and organization by our hunt masters, Paul Giese and Bob Morris. Make sure you thank Paul and Bob for their outstanding effort!

Librarian Report: Tom Schweppe

Tom reported that the library is doing well. He said that a member donated a video and a Minelab book to our collection. Our library is in top notch shape!

Hunting Local "Micro-sites"

by Vince Migliore (SVDB)

I love going out on our club hunts on Sunday mornings, but we are often faced with that familiar problem of too many people working the same over-hunted parks. To remedy that situation, some of us are linking up in small groups (2 or 3 members) and setting out to smaller sites. These mini-excursions usually pay off big-time, because the smaller search areas generally have not been scoured by detectors before. We often come across that detectorist's dream – the "virgin" site. These are locations that have never been hunted before, and you can find coins and jewelry at all depths, even on the surface of the ground.

Last week I was fortunate to find a small park, about 2 acres, that was untouched. I found 22 coins in just over one hour, and three of them were earlier than 1965. I plan to go back there soon with a bigger coil and look for the silver that is most certainly hidden there.

So, how do you find such sites? Simple: keep your eyes open! Every time you drive to work, or take a trip in the car, start looking for those small patches of land where lots of people have walked. It might be a tiny park or a strip of public land on a busy street. After a while, like a photographer, you develop a habit of searching for and finding those special locations brimming with opportunity. You store those locations in your memory banks, or even chart them on a map. Then, when you have the opportunity of a spare hour or two, you can run out and hit the jackpot.

Not too long ago, I had jury duty in downtown Sacramento. I decided to take the light-rail train from Folsom to the courthouse – every day for a week. The tracks run along Folsom Boulevard, which is one of the oldest streets in the metropolitan area. From the train I could see dozens of tiny search sites that are ripe for hunting.

This has worked well for me, because sometimes I have only half an hour to hunt with the detector, but that small strip of grass I noticed last week will only take 20 minutes to search anyway. For the areas that are a little larger, I call up a friend or two from the club, and we go out together to these micro-sites. The SVDB club provides us with a great opportunity to meet other hobbyists in our area. Many of them are open to a spur of the moment hunt, or a planned trip to a local site.

Daytona Beach, Florida - April 3rd thru 5th, 2009

Welcome to the 7th Annual Great Southern Beach Shootout! Held every year at Daytona Beach, Florida, the GSBS has quickly become known as the world's largest beach metal detection event! This year's Great Southern Beach Shootout featured 5 competition hunts, plus a kid's hunt! The top ten ALL CASH prizes totaling more than $11,000 included a $5,000 Cash Grand Prize. There were thousands of targets buried in the 4 main hunts on Saturday & Sunday, along with tokens for cash, twenty-seven detectors and other gold & silver prizes.

SVDB was represented by eight people at the event with six of the eight taking part in the five hunts. They were the Costellos, Carliles and the Wieses.

The photo below represents the metal detectors that were given away as token prizes. There were a total of 50 main tokens for the cash and detector prizes. In addition there were eight detectors raffled off.

The SVDB team did not get any of the top 50 tokens, however, there were two SVDB raffle winners.

Ann Costello won a Fisher Coinstrike

Lois Wiese won a 25 Ounce Silver Bar

The following two photos are of the Beach Hunt Field.

The SVDB Group had a good time; however, it was announced on Sunday the last day of the event that there will be no more Great Southern Beach Shootouts. 😞

New Suggestions:

Abandoned Areas:

Where I live there are two trailer parks that have been here for 50 to 75 years.

Developers bought the property and the trailers will all be gone or abandoned soon. I'm looking forward to searching them.

I also drive out of the city to the country and look for the remains of old houses, barns or whatever looks empty and run down. Great places to detect.

Remote Control Metal Detecting

The London Science Museum added metal detecting technology to an R/C car so you can find treasure and have fun at the same time. The car beeps and lights up whenever it nears a metal object. It only costs $83, so I may actually end up getting one. Walking the beach with a Minelab metal detector is just far too boring for me. Sure I've found several expensive rings, but the women they're attached to usually start screaming before I can get them off.

On the Lighter Side

"Congress is so strange; a man gets up to speak and says nothing, nobody listens, and then everybody disagrees."

"There is some talk of lowering the income tax, and they will have to. People are not making enough to pay it."

Both of the above quotes are by Will Rogers.

"Anybody lose a ring?"

"It's a coil, not a Frisbee you mutt!"
